Health science training offered Oct. 19 virtually

Health care offers high-demand career opportunities across the country, and it is my career field focus in October. As part of that emphasis, Greenbush is hosting an "Anatomy in Clay" training on Monday, Oct. 19. In addition to receiving information on how to engage students in hands-on learning in both a traditional classroom setting and in remote situations in health, biology, and anatomy & physiology classes, Anatomy in Clay representatives will DELIVER TO YOU the hands-on supplies personally to your district. You will have the materials for the workshop, as well as for future use with your students. (Continued on page 2)

Health science training

In order to get the supplies ordered for the attendees, I MUST have your registration by Oct. 9. Email me at jamie.manhart@greenbush.org, and we can get the registration process started. This virtual workshop allows educators to attend from home and will model distance-learning opportunities that engage students in hands-on learning. Attendees will discuss strategies on how to assist students in learning more about the human body and the career opportunities that are available in health science.

The Oct. 19 workshop will be from 8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m., with an hour lunch from 11:30-12:30. The link will be sent out upon registration, as well as additional information.

Greenbush Perkins Consortium Members: $250

Non-members: $340

This price includes the full-day training and the TORZIKEN model, clay, and handouts delivered to you that you keep for your district. If you are a Greenbush Perkins Consortium Member, you may use some of your allocated PD stipend to cover this fee, as well as any substitute costs incurred.

PERKINS TEAM EXPERIENCES CHANGES

Our Perkins Grant Administrative Team recently experienced some changes, with Jennifer Bingham taking over as the grant manager and Jenn De Lee as the grant project assistant. They will both monitor the Consortium email account and have done an awesome job transitioning into their new roles.

Reminder: email equipment reimbursement requests by Nov. 2 to perkins.consortium@greenbush.org. The email should include your district's form of approved items with their updated information, as well as receipts for the items purchased. After the deadline, funds may be forfeited and redistributed to other districts.
